Nuffield Australia Farming Scholarships - Project: VG08012 (HAL)

Under Project VGO8012, HAL supports three Nuffield Scholars. Each scholar completes a 16-week Scholarship to travel overseas and study a topic related to the horticultural industry. Topics include:

Steve Newman: "The use of labour and machines in vegetable production."

Hieu Minh Ly: "Converting soil grown production methods to hydroponics in protected cropping."

Scott Samwell: "Soil and plant interaction and the concept of fusion farming."

Steve Newman: "The use of labour and machines in vegetable production."

Steve participated in the Contemporary Scholars Conference (CSC), the Global Focus Program (GFP) and embarked on personal study in 2012. He presented his findings at the Nuffield Spring Conference in Adelaide on 24 September 2011. Links to his presentation and report are here:
